DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 3 and 8-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Walden (5,120,256).

Regarding claims 9-13, Walden, figures 2-7, disclose a connector for connecting circuit boards with each other, comprising:

- a first connector section (12) disposed on a first circuit board (16) and having contact terminals (not shown) electrically connected to an electro-conductive layer of the first circuit board; and
- a second connector section (121) disposed on a second circuit board (since the first connector (12) and the second connector (121) have a similar structure, therefore, it is inherently to have the second connector disposed on a second circuit board) and having terminals (not shown) electrically connected to an electro-conductive layer of the second circuit board;

wherein when the first connector section is coupled to the second connector section, non-elastic metallic engaging portions (114A, figure 7 shows the metallic engaging portions is adjacent to a surface of the first connector section ) provided in the first connector section are latched with elastic metallic projections (114A, figures 5 and 7 show metallic projections 114A is spaced from a surface of the second connector section) provided on an inner surface of an elastic piece (10) provided in the second connector section to hold the first connector section on the second connector section, the engaging portions in the first connector section comprise nibs, the nibs projecting away from the first connector, the first connector section having leg portions (32, figure 3) fixed to the first circuit board and the second connector section having leg portions (same as the first connector) fixed to the second circuit board, and a recess (56, figure 2) is formed for allowing a portion of the elastic piece being engaged in the second connector section to advance/retract at a base of the second connector section.

Regarding claims 3 and 14, the non-elastic metallic engaging portion and the elastic piece are formed in a thin sheet-like form separately from the base for supporting the contact terminals in the second connector section

Regarding claim 8, the engaging portions of the first connector section are embedded in one piece and fixed in the base of the first connector section.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 9-11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

5. A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
